In April 2017, JPC recruited 100 graduates on an asset management project for a period of four months. The JPC lease audit project is a rent audit and comprehensive review of leases versus occupancy and available data through desktop verification, contract management and site inspection in order to get the most favourable social and economic benefits from lease management.

The Expanded Public Works Programme (EPWP) of the DED funds the interns' stipend. The graduates have undergone an intensive class and on-the-job training on the more basic skills required in the workplace, as well as the practical training on the auditing project.
